

Wieke Karsten teaches the flute, pedagogy and subjects on practicing & performing at the Royal Conservatoire The Hague. She is artistic and educational leader of the Dutch Flute Academy, together with Jeroen Bron, www.neflac.nl. Wieke developed the method 'Music making, practicing and the brain' and gives summer courses, masterclasses, workshops and lectures in the Netherlands and abroad. Her articles on teaching and music making are being published in several music magazines in Holland, Belgium and Germany.

August 2019 her Dutch book In de Muziek has been published with Amsterdam University Press, and is received very positively. It has been called 'indispensable for everyone interested in the topic of music making'. An English translation is in progress.

She keeps a blog: www.aandachtvoordemusicus.nl and participates in an international network on practicing and performing: <http://web.uniarts.fi/practicingtipsformusicians/>.
